serving people facing hunger

The morning Selina visited the Mobile Market free food distribution, she'd put the last piece of fruit in her son's lunchbox and knew it would be a week before she could buy more. "We're in between paychecks," the mother of two shared. "We're just about out of everything." The healthy foods she picked up provided nourishment and hope. "Everything we get here today will help us, even if it's just something small."

Second Harvest provides food to more than 250 partner food banks, meal sites and other programs that serve families facing hunger in Eastern Washington and North Idaho. Second Harvest appreciates the community support that helps get food to people who need it.
